

Best Practice in Safety Risk Management

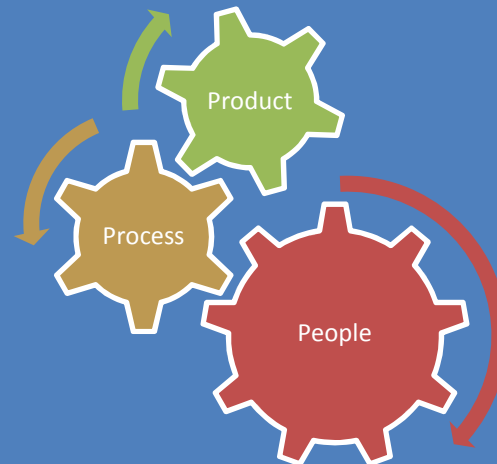

John McColl
Head of Airworthiness
& Chief Surveyor
CAA UK

Safety as a Value

An intangible value, safety is immeasurable until it has been compromised. Safety is not a commodity that can be bartered or exchanged. It is a level of trust that is reinforced over time by skill, education, experience, process management, vigilance and attention to detail. And it is as perishable as a promise. Once that promise is broken, the credibility of the system is compromised; the trust of the consumer is violated.

Poor Quality

The Bitterness of Poor Quality Remains Long After the sweetness of low price and / or meeting the schedule has been forgotten.

Leadership
Ambition
Behaviours &
Accountability

Learning &
Innovation

Pride
Professionalism
& Integrity

Governance

Independence

Challenge

Sharing Data
& Trends

Change
Management

Risk

Hazard

Barriers

Root
Cause

Design

Production

Maintenance & Reliability

Have a great conference